1978 Torch

Today, Yesterday, and Tomorrow

Here is a soul without desire
Here is a man without a purpose in life.
Here is a fool.
Like a plant, he wants nothing, expects nothing,
Life without dreams,
A soul without a tomorrow,
A fool with only yesterdays,
Only a memory of life
he would have had.
Happiness is only a frame of mind.
Loneliness is a condition
Of the body and mind together.
Today I live,
Yesterday I loved,
Tomorrow I will die.
My life is but three days.
But being only three days,
I find that
Tomorrow will last only a fraction of a second;
Today lasts only a fraction of a minute;
Yesterday lasted an eternity.
And having lasted an eternity, I can say that I truly lived a fruitful life,
One of everlasting love.

T. H. E. Moon

Says Farewell.

The Tassel Tells The Tale

It's one of those nice graduation traditions: switching the tassel on your cap from one side to the other just after you receive your diploma. This tells the world you've completed a chapter in your life—successfully—and that you're ready for the next adventure, be it the beginning of a career or further education. Whichever road you follow, The Foxboro Company says congratulations, and Godspeed. Tomorrow is yours.

Our Friend

Do not stand at my grave and weep . . .
I am not there. I do not sleep.

I am a thousand winds that blow.
I am the diamond glints on snow.
I am the sunlight on ripened grain,
I am the gentle autumm rain.
When you wake in the morning's hush.
I am the swift upflinging rush
Of quiet birds in circling flight.
I am the soft star-shine at night.

Do not stand at my grave and cry . . .
I am not there. I did not die.
